MASTER OF NURSING (ADVANCED PRACTICE)

The Master of Nursing (Advanced Practice) program is intended for registered nurses who wish to prepare themselves for leadership in nursing practice and education. The focus is on clinical practice and the program allows for specialisation in selected areas of nursing and in-depth study of a selected topic relevant to nursing practice. In particular, the program is designed for registered nurses who wish to practice as clinical nurse specialists, clinical nurse consultants or clinical nurse educators.

The program has a clinical practice focus and allows for specialisation in a selected area of nursing. A number of the courses listed are offered in partnership with Hunter New England Area Health (including mental health and the Centre for Education and Nursing Research in Child Health [CENRICH]).

Specialisation areas

- Acute care (including perioperative, nephrology, intensive care, emergency and surgical nursing)
- Older person nursing
- Mental health
- Child, youth and family nursing
